eBillingHub® Continues to Advance Automated eBill Submission Capabilities Through Bridgeway Integration

Market Leader for Law Firm Electronic Billing Delivers Improved Ease of Use and Simplicity With Availability Of Newest Integration

PITTSBURGH, PA. March 4, 2010 – The eBillingHub, the market leading solution that reduces the cost and complexity associated with legal eBilling, announced the general availability of its integration with Bridgeway Software’s Corridor™ product. The integration with Corridor delivers on eBillingHub’s commitment to enable simplified and reliable eBilling by tightly interfacing with leading legal spend and matter management solutions. Bridgeway is a member of the eBillingHub’s Technology Alliance Partner (TAP) program, which provides a standards-based integration mechanism that gives law firm customers increased reliability of eBill submissions, improved coordinated customer service and an open platform for future joint product enhancements.

“The eBillingHub is very serious about developing and expanding the TAP program and are confident that we are delivering increased business value for our respective customers. The TAP program is based on a simple and easy to use web service interface that simplifies how both sides work together and a partner revenue sharing component that ensures lasting and strong relationships. The integration with Corridor underscores our mission to offer the most open and scalable platform for eBilling,” commented Ryan Ladisic, Global VP of Sales and Marketing, of the eBillingHub. Ladisic continues, “Now law firms can easily and automatically submit and process Corridor based eBills through the eBillingHub, reducing the time it takes to process the bills and greatly improving the reliability of all bill submissions.”

“As a long time partner of the eBillingHub we are pleased to see the general availability of the TAP integration and we are eager for our law firm clients to begin to gain the benefits of its use, stated Keith Okano, President, Bridgeway Software. “The integration between Corridor and the eBillingHub demonstrates our commitment to reducing the complexity of electronic billing for our law firm clients, and our support of this integration is an important step in achieving that goal,” remarked Okano.

eBillingHub’s SaaS implementation enables law firms to go live on the system in as little as 15 hours, eliminating the hardware purchase requirements of traditionally delivered software or budgeting for any professional services. The eBillingHub simplifies the eBilling process by integrating a law firm’s time and billing software with multiple eBilling vendors, reducing overall complexity and resulting in a predictable, dependable, and efficient process.
